“ Leonard Thielen was a wonderful teacher. I'll never forget when he came to speak to my juniors in high school English about their career goals. He told a number of engaging stories and went on to say that if my students made something they loved their career that they'd "never work a day" in their lives. That made quite an impression on all of us. He was always full of joy and kindness whenever I encountered him, and his sweetness will be missed.
