Proverbs 31:31 "Honor her for all that her hands have done, and let her works bring her praise at the city gate."

The world lost a beloved mother, wife and grandmother. On November 10th, Raquel Peña, returned to her heavenly Father. Raquel Peña lived every moment of life to the fullest. One of her favorite poems by Robert Frost
“ A Road Not Taken”

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the under growth;
Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,
And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.

Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.
I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference

“ I still remember Mrs. Peña from my days on the debate team at Edinburg North HS in the early 1990s. She would often accompany her kids to the tournaments. She watched over us high schoolers while our coach was busy and became one of our biggest supporters. Her calming effect on us after difficult debate matches was always something I'll always remember. No matter how badly it went, her positive nature made me feel better with her motherly advice that it was all going to be fine. I was saddened to hear about her passing. May she rest in peace.
